4. POLICY STATEMENT

Bond University condemns all forms of Gender-based Violence as unacceptable. In accordance with the National Code and the principles set out in clause 4.1 below, the University is committed to building and sustaining a culture of safety, respect and inclusion that prioritises both the prevention of Gender-based Violence and responses to such violence that are safe, Person-centred and Trauma-informed.

Moreover, the University acknowledges that:

- Pursuant to Australia's Respect@Work initiatives, it has a positive duty to eliminate, as far as possible, work-related Sexual Harassment, sexist conduct, and associated acts of Victimisation.
- Everyone has a responsibility to say or do something to obtain affirmative Consent before engaging in and during any conduct of a sexual nature with another person.

4.1 Principles

The following principles underpin Bond University's approach to preventing and responding to Gender-based Violence.

4.1.1 Accountable Leadership and Governance

- Leaders at all levels of the University prioritise safety and support in the prevention of and response to Gender-based Violence.
- The University Registrar as PEO is accountable for Bond's compliance with the National Code, and the University Council is responsible for monitoring the effectiveness of actions under Bond's Gender-based Violence Prevention and Response Plan.

4.1.2 Safe Environments and Systems

- The University provides physical, digital, and social environments that minimise the risk of Gender-based Violence, supported by policies and systems that are continuously improved to prevent and respond to Gender-based Violence.
- Prevention of Gender-based Violence is embedded in all Bond-related activities, maintaining a culture where Gender-based Violence is unacceptable and where Disclosures and Formal Reports can be made with a sense of safety, including anonymously.

4.1.3 Knowledge and Capability

- The University builds knowledge and capability through contemporary research and sector best practice to implement initiatives that safely and effectively prevent and respond to Gender-based Violence.
- Meaningful engagement with the Bond Community informs prevention and response initiatives for impact across the University.

4.1.4 Safety and Support

- The University prioritises the safety and wellbeing of all members of the Bond Community affected by incidents of Gender-based Violence by providing or facilitating access to safe, Person-centred and Trauma-informed support and advice, regardless of where the incident occurred.
- This includes the provision of targeted Safety Measures for Students and Staff where necessary.

4.1.5 Safe Processes

- The University provides safe, streamlined and simplified processes for making Disclosures and Formal Reports of Gender-based Violence, ensuring these are accessible and available through multiple channels and minimise the number of times a Student or Staff member needs to recount a traumatic experience.
- Responses to incidents of Gender-based Violence are impartial, timely and effective. Investigations and disciplinary processes are managed promptly, fairly, and confidentially, ensuring Procedural Fairness to all parties.

4.1.6 Data, Evidence and Impact

- Appropriate and meaningful de-identified data relating to Disclosures and Formal Reports is collected and reported on in order to understand the nature and prevalence of Gender-based Violence in the Bond Community, respond to risk, identify trends, measure the impact of prevention and response initiatives, and contribute to the national evidence base.
- All Disclosures and Formal Reports are treated confidentially and in accordance with relevant legislation and the University's Privacy Policy and Records Management Policy.

4.1.7 Safe Student Accommodation

- The requirements of the National Code apply to all Bond University Student Accommodation.
- The University takes active measures to ensure student Residents are safe and supported, and that staff safety is upheld.

4.2 Preventing Gender-based Violence

4.2.1 Awareness of Factors that Drive and Contribute to Gender-based Violence

Bond University acknowledges that gender inequality sets the underlying context for Gender-based Violence, and that the key factors driving and contributing to this violence have been identified by relevant research as follows:

- condoning of Gender-based Violence;
- rigid gender stereotypes;
- control of decision-making by members of one gender that limits the independence of members of another gender; and
- peer relations among members of one gender that emphasise aggression towards, and dominance and control of members of another gender.

The University also recognises that Gender-based Violence disproportionately affects women, First Nations people, culturally and linguistically diverse communities, people with disability, and people of diverse sexual orientation and gender identity, and that Intersectionality may compound a person's experiences of Gender-based Violence in diverse and complex ways.

4.2.2 Proactive Prevention Measures

Bond University seeks to prevent Gender-based Violence through:

- adoption of a Whole-of-Organisation Gender-based Violence Prevention and Response Plan;
- clearly defining and embedding expected standards of behaviour throughout the University's policy framework, and communicating these standards to all members of the Bond Community through compulsory onboarding, orientation or training modules;
- embedding the principles outlined in this Policy at all levels of the organisation;
- developing and delivering a diverse range of prevention and response education initiatives to support capability building across the University; and
- partnering with Students, Staff, groups who are disproportionately affected by Gender-based Violence, those with lived experience, subject matter experts, and external placement providers to inform, develop and improve prevention strategies.

This approach focuses strongly on primary prevention, consistent with Bond's commitment to transforming attitudes and behaviours in support of a safer, more respectful and more inclusive Bond Community, rather than simply responding to incidents that have already occurred.

The Gender-based Violence Prevention and Response Procedure provides further information on the University's efforts to prevent Gender-based Violence.

4.3 Responding to Gender-based Violence

4.3.1 Accessible Communication Channels

- a) Bond University recognises that the process of disclosing or formally reporting Gender-based Violence can be challenging. The University seeks to reduce perceived barriers by providing and promoting a range of accessible channels for making a Disclosure or Formal Report (together with information about external reporting avenues), and by assisting individuals to engage with these options through a confidential, Person-centred and Trauma-informed approach.
- b) Disclosures and Formal Reports may be made anonymously. However, the University's ability to respond will be limited.

4.3.2 Support

- a) Care and consideration for individual safety and wellbeing is the primary focus when responding to any Disclosure or addressing any Formal Report of Gender-based Violence. While the University prioritises the safety and wellbeing of Disclosers, the safety and wellbeing of Respondents and of the Bond Community is also critical.
- b) The University will provide or facilitate access to compassionate and accessible advice and support services for all members of the Bond Community affected by Gender-based Violence. Adopting a safe, Person-centred and Trauma-informed approach, the University will coordinate and align the advisory and support services available to Students and Staff (such as counselling and medical services, interpreter services, and security services) to reflect their personal needs and experiences, while remaining respectful of the rights of individuals to self-determination, empowerment, and confidentiality.
- c) The University may put in place targeted Safety Measures for Students and Staff in appropriate cases.

4.3.3 Disclosures

- a) Disclosure refers to the sharing of information with another person at the University about an experience of Gender-based Violence. A person who discloses an experience of Gender-based Violence may be the person who experienced the incident or another person. Disclosures are usually made to a person who is known and trusted. Generally, the purpose of a Disclosure is to seek advice, information and/or support.
- b) Disclosers may or may not want to make a Formal Report. The University will respect an individual's autonomy in this regard, subject to relevant risk assessments or legal requirements.
- c) All staff involved in providing support to Disclosers will have relevant knowledge, experience and expertise in relation to Gender-based Violence and apply Person-centred and Trauma-informed approaches.
- d) The Gender-based Violence Prevention and Response Procedure provides further information in relation to Disclosures, including details of where and how Students and Staff can make a Disclosure.

4.3.4 Formal Reports

- a) Bond University encourages the reporting of Gender-based Violence incidents, either to the University or to an external agency.
- b) A Formal Report of an experience of Gender-based Violence may be made to the University by the person who experienced the incident or another person. This carries the expectation that the University will consider taking steps beyond the offer and provision of support services, including (without limitation) the commencement of an investigation and/or a disciplinary process in appropriate circumstances, as required by the National Code.
- c) Formal Reports will be taken seriously, investigated promptly, and addressed with appropriate action. All Staff involved in responding to Formal Reports, conducting investigations, or determining disciplinary proceedings will have relevant knowledge, experience and expertise in relation to Gender-based Violence and apply Person-centred and Trauma-informed approaches.
- d) The Gender-based Violence Response and Prevention Procedure provides further information in relation to Formal Reports, including details of where and how Students and Staff can make a Formal Report.

4.3.5 Non-disclosure Agreements

Bond University prohibits the use of Non-disclosure Agreements unless requested by a Discloser. Any such agreement must not:

- prevent the Discloser from seeking support and advice;
- prevent the University from complying with its reporting obligations under the National Code; or
- contain a Non-disparagement Clause requiring the Discloser to maintain confidentiality about their Gender-based Violence experience.

4.4 Breach of Policy

Individuals must not engage in Gender-based Violence, behaviour that induces others to engage in Gender-based Violence, or Victimisation of a Discloser, Respondent, or person associated with a Discloser or Respondent.

Breaches of this Policy may be subject to disciplinary action as follows:

- For Students: in accordance with the Student Code of Conduct Policy and associated procedures; and
- For Staff: in accordance with the Staff Code of Conduct Policy and associated procedures, or applicable instruments of appointment and/or contract terms.

4.5 Monitoring and Reporting

University Council will receive biannual reporting against the outcomes framework of Bond's Whole-of-Organisation Gender-based Violence Prevention and Response Plan, including de-identified data on incidents of Gender-based Violence experienced by Students and Staff together with any trends in the data.

Reporting to Council will be facilitated by the monitoring and reporting activities of the Student Transition, Wellbeing & Safety Committee and the Work, Health & Safety Management Committee, as outlined in the Gender-based Violence Prevention and Response Procedure.

Reporting will assist the University to identify patterns and systemic issues, respond to risk, evaluate the efficacy of prevention and response initiatives, and identify opportunities for improvements and preventative actions.

4.6 Review of Policy

This Policy will be reviewed at least every three years, including through engagement and collaboration with Students, Staff, groups disproportionately affected by Gender-based Violence, those who have experienced Gender-based Violence, subject matter experts on Gender-based Violence, and external placement providers.

4.7 Complaints

Members of the Bond Community who are dissatisfied with the University's handling of a Disclosure or Formal Report of Gender-based Violence may lodge a complaint in accordance with the Complaints and Feedback Procedure, or externally via the National Student Ombudsman (NSO) for student-related matters. Any recommendations made by the NSO to the University in relation to Gender-based Violence will be implemented.
